RUSHING AID TO STRICKEN STATES

Relief Trains in Charge of Sacretary of War Garrison on Their Way.

WASHOUTS DELAY.

No Expense to be Spared in Affording Federal Assistance—Gen. Wood to Direct Situation.

On Board Government's Train, Near Clifton Force, W. Va., March 28.—Delayed by washouts and notified of the high flood stages of the Ohio river, Secretary of War Garrison, in charge of the government's special flood relief party, decided today to abandon his schedule of crossing the Ohio at Kenova, W. Va., and now plans to push on to Columbia, Ohio, near Cincinnati. From that point attempt will be made to travel eastward to Columbus. He had originally planned to travel to Chillicothe, but railroad officials advised against attempting to cross the now swollen Ohio except near Cincinnati.

Secretary Garrison is attempting to keep in constant touch with Governor Cox, of Ohio, and receives and dispatches messages at practically every stop.

He made it plain today that his instructions were to spare no expense in directing the federal relief work.

General Wood is also here in order that he may take immediate direction of the situation without necessity of referring questions back to Washington."

In addition to Garrison, Wood and other army officers who will direct relief work, the special train carries two wireless operators and a telegrapher of the signal corps, who will endeavor to establish communication throughout the flood district.

Philadelphia, March 28.—No improvement in his condition since yesterday when it was given out that he was in grave danger of death, physicians attending former President James McCrea today gave out the information that the former railroad head was sinking slowly and that his death was expected hourly. FLOOD SITUATION TODAY.

Rescue parties report a general reduction in previous death estimates.

Piqua and Peru, the two smaller towns in Ohio and Indiana respectively where the greatest loss of life had been reported give new death estimates well below fifty persons.

Dayton conditions improving and fire extinguished marooned thousands rescued by militia and life savers in boats; deaths now estimated at 200 to 500.

New peril in Ohio River valley, where rising of water threatens Wheeling, Cincinnati, Evansville, Ind., and Cairo, Ill., with worst flood in years.

Dayton and Columbus under martial law; no sightseers allowed to alight from the few trains that have entered the Dayton district; railroads in charge of military by Gov. Cox.

Train loads of supplies getting into Dayton.

A number of cases of pneumonia developed by women and children survivors at Dayton led to the fear of a general epidemic from exposure; breaking up of all sewer mains threatens epidemic of typhoid, government sanitary engineers taking every preventative measure possible.

New York's money contributions to the relief amounted to $109,852. so far.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

A teriffic windstorm, accompanied by heavy rain and lightning occurred throughout Delaware yesterday. Considerable damage was done and there were a number of narrow escapes. The wind throughout the state was the highest for a number of years.

By the confession of Salvatore Geraci yesterday the mystery surrounding the death of Grace Geraci, whose body was found in a millpond near Georgetown, Ct., on November 9, 1912, has been finally cleared. Geraci, in his confession to the New York police, told how, after a quarrel, he had killed his wife by driving a nail into her brain and then put the body in a trunk which he expressed to Georgetown. Claiming the trunk at hat place he had taken the body of the murdered woman to the pond and threw it in. The Italian told the police that he had started to give himself up immediately after the deed, but had been advised against the course by two friends in whom he confided. Geraci's confession, the police say, came after several hours' cross-examination at their hands.

Among the passengers on the steamer Frances, which left New York recently was Pierre Wood, who wore diamond studded shoes and a sealskin coat. Pierre is a French poodle and a member of the family of Mrs. J. B. Wood. The reunion of Pierre and Mrs. Wood was affecting. During the 10 days they have been in New York, they have been compelled to live apart. Mrs. Wood stayed at the Plaza and Pierre at the Ritz, where his owner visited him every day. The poodle was looked after by Mrs. Wood"s maid, who remained with him at the Ritz. Mrs. Wood said that it was Pierre's homesickness that was taking her back, for she had intended to stay two weeks longer.

Milk Supply Cut Off.

New York, March 28.—The great milk supply from dairies up state along the New York Cenutral lines, upon which New York depends for thousands of babies, was cut off during the night and the city today faced a serious milk famine.

Dispatches fro all points up state indicated that the situation is likely to grow worse during the next 24 hours. Relief will be sought by way of lines into Jersey, New England and Long Island, but the main source of the city's supply is shut off.

FLOYD AND CLAUDE ALLEN ARE ELECTROCUTED AT 1.30 THIS AFTERNOON DESPITE ALL EFFORTS TO SAVE THEIR LIVES

DRAMATIC SITUATION.

Governor Makes Night Trip From New Jersey in Order to See That The Law is Carried Out.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—Stoical to the last, with the mountaineer's grim fortitude, Floyd and Claude Allen, father and son, went to death in the electric chair here today, expiating with their lives the Hillsville murders of a year ago.

Floyd, the "patriarch" of the Allen clansmen, was the first to die. It was only a moment after 1:30 when the gray-haired mountaineer marched into the dark little room at the state prison, underground, its recesses lighted only by dim electric lights. A few seconds afterward the electric lights dimmed as the full shock of the death giving current took the prisoner's life.

Hardly had the body of the old man been carried out of the room than the clang of the outside iron door announced that the son was marching to his death. He was strapped in the chair scarcely a minute after his father had been pronounced dead, and again death claimed vengeance for the Hillsville tragedy.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—A last almost superhuman effort to save the two condemned was lost shortly before noon today, when Governor Mann, who had announced his determination to speak at Newark, N. J., heard that the acting State executive, Lieut. Gov. Ellyson, was likely to commute their sentences to life imprisonment, notwithstand the fact that Mann had refused to interfere with the executions last night. The Governor wired from the northernmost Virginia city "I am still governor," and caught the first train back to Richmond. At noon he was at his desk at the capitol and announced that the law must take its course. Superintendent Wood had meantime postponed the executions.

Floyd and Claude Allen met death calmly. Both walked unassisted and without a tremor from the death cells, far underground, through a long corridor, past two steel doors and into the chamber of death. Both left statements asserting their innocence of any crime punishable with the capital penalty.

Old Floyd, his head erect and his rough-lined face almost transfigured, bade his son farewell in the corridor of the death cells. He merely said "good-bye"—as if starting on a journey where he knew shortly he would be rejoined by his son. Then he gravely and courteously wished his jailors a farewell, turned and paced down the corridor to the instrument that dealt quick death.

Claude Allen was none the less brave. He, too, told his guards goodbye and unconcernedly paced to his doom.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—After all night conference between Lieutenant Governor Ellyson, Attorney-General Williams, and friends of the Allens, it was announced early this morning that Superintendent Wood had agreed to postpone the execution of Floyd Allen and Claude Swanson Allen until this afternoon.

The attorney general has agreed to furnish Lieutenant Governor Ellyson with a written opinion as to his right to commute the sentence by noon. The sentence of the court provides that the prisoners must be executed between sunrise and sunset today (Friday.)

The appeal to Lieutenant Governor Ellyson to commute the sentences of the two men condemned to die for their part in the Hillsville courthouse murders was made last night after Governor Mann had left the city and after he had refused the final plea to him of friends of the Allens for commutation of the clansmen's sentences.

The petition to Governor Mann, drawn by counsel for the condemned men and signed by a number of prominent business men, was the most remarkable document presented a chief magistrate of the Commonwealth of Virginia, in that it boldly asserted that Governor Mann, because of his prejudiced condition of mind, was unfitted to pass final judgment on the cases of the doomed men, suggested Prof. Martin Burks, of Washington, and Lee University, as chairman of a commission, with the foremen of the several juries which passed on the cases of the clansmen as the other members, to pass on the question of commutation of the death sentences.

The petition further charges Dexter Goad, clerk of Carroll county, and three revenue men who testified against the Allens, with "alleged perjury," and further states that the State of Virginia expended between $30,000 and $40,000 with private detective agencies in the effort to hunt down the fugitives; that the governor would be an unfit judge to preside over the trials of the condemned men, and that for this reason a commission of inquiry should be appointed for that purpose.

"We say," the petition reads, "with all respect to you as a man and as the Governor of the State, that we believe and think that if you will face the facts fairly that you will find that had you been judge of the court in which these cases came up for trial, you would have been obliged, in fairness to yourself and to the defendants, to certify that you were incapacitated from trying the cases on account of preconceived feeling.

"For these reasons, we say that the feelings of the people of Virginia are outraged; that their sense of justice has been wronged; that no merely passing whim dictates this appeal which has come to you almost as the voice of one man, and we, believing that great wrong will be done, not only to the defendants themselves, but to the people of this Commonwealth, by the execution of thes men, make this final appeal for the commission to investigate the facts, and recommend to your excellency a course of procedure in the matter."

The petitioners offered to pay the expenses, in event the State's funds for such purposes were not sufficient.

Floyd and Claude Allen were visited by Victor Allen, Richard E. Byrd, Speaker of the House of Delegates, and by Rev. George McDaniel and Rev. J. J. Scherer, their spiritual advisers, yesterday, Victor remained with his father and brother practically all day and last night stated they were spiritually ready to meet their Maker. Sidna Allen, brother of Floyd, who is serving 35 years, visited the condemned men Wednesday night and yesterday. Friel Allen and Sidna and Wesley Edwards, cousins, also serving prison terms, bade their relatives final good-by. Many hours were spent in prayer and reading the Scriptures. Both men hold up well.

Sympathizers of the Allens, who, through the efforts of the women of Carroll and other southwest counties, raised a fund for the purchase of a gold medal for Claude Allen, were ready to present the same to him yesterday, when an order went from Governor Mann to the prison authorities not to allow the medal to be presented.

DEVELOPMENTS IN ALLEN CASE.

Floyd Allen and his son Claude were electrocuted at the State Penitentiary in Richmond this afternoon. Floyd was the first to die at 1:32 and Claude followed him to death five minutes later.

The death of the men came only after weeks of strenuous effort on the part of their friends to save their lives. Governor Mann had put off their executions several times and had definitely refused to commute their sentences, petition after petition was presented to him, but the Governor could not be induced to change his mind.

He left Richmond yesterday afternoon to fill an engagement in Trenton, N. J. No sooner was he out of the state than lawyers and friends of the Allen's met in Richmond and endeavored to have Lieutenant Governor Taylor Ellyson commute the sentence of the two men, who were to die at day break this morning.

After an all night conference the execution of the men was postponed until a later hour so that Attorney General Williams could furnish Mr. Ellyson with an opinion as to his authority to act while the Governor was out of the State.

In the meanwhile Governor Mann was advised of the proceedings in Richmond and left Trenton at 3:30 this morning. He was unable to get a sleeper and rode in the day coach. He reached Alexandria shortly after 7 o'clock and sent the following message from the union station in this city:

"I am the Governor of Virginia and I am on Virginia soil."

The Governor reached Richmond at 11:30 and his arrival put an end to all effort to save the Allens.

EFFORTS TO SAVE.

After Five Hours' Respite This Morning Execution is Ordered by Governor Who Returns Home.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—Gov. Mann reached the city at 11:30 from Philadelphia, having been apprised of happenings here last night. He got the news at 3 o'clock, donned his clothing and caught the first train for the South. His return was to forestall and prevent any execution of the movement by the friends of the Allens to have the Lieutenant Governor act in his absence from the State. Reaching Alexandria at 8 o'clock this morning he sent a telegram to Colonel B. O. James, Secretary of the Commonwealth, saying: "I am the Governor of Virginia, and I am on Virginia soil." This means that whatever the opinion of the Attorney General might have been as to the rights of the Lieutenant Governor, the hasty return of Governor Mann was a practical declaration that the Allens should go to their death. They will be executed about 1:30 o'clock.

Richmond, Va., March 28.—Friends who have desperately fought to save the two Allens from death in the electric chair today, practically gave up hope when it became known here that Governor Mann, who left Richmond last night for Trenton, N. J., was hastening back to the state capital to head off the last supreme effort of the Allens' counsel for commutation of their sentences to life imprisonment. As soon as Mann learned that Lieut. Governor Ellyson, was considering whether he had power to commute the sentences on Floyd and Claude Allen during absence of the state executive, the Governor who had rejected a final appeal in their behalf last night, hurriedly stepped off the train and took another enroute home again.

It was the concensus of opinion here that so long as Mann was on Virginia soil Ellyson was powerless to order the commutation of the Allens' sentences. They were to have died at dawn, but taking advantage of the court's sentence which condemned them to the electric chair some time between sunrise and sunset today, Superintendent of Prison Woods granted them a reprieve until noon, during which time Ellyson was to receive a legal opinion on his right to exercise clemency.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

Moved by the dreadful calamity that has befallen the victims of the flood in Ohio and Illinois, the people of Alexandria yesterday commenced the collections of funds which will be sent through the Red Cross Society. The national banks opened subscriptions yesterday morning and received a considerable sum of money which will be sent to the stricken district.

The first public entertainment for the flood victims will be held tonight in the Second Presbyterian Church. A concert is to be given in connection with the opening of the new Westminister Building by Henry Patterson Hopkins, organist, and the choir of the Franklin street, Presbyterian Church of Baltimore and it was the intention that the collection be devoted to the expenses in connection with the opening of the new building but it was determined today to donate the proceeds of the concert to the flood sufferers.

A number of the fraternal organizations will hold meetings tonight for the purpose of making arrangements to contribute to the various funds.

Mayor Fisher was asked today if he intended taking any official action in regard to the distress now facing the people in the West. The Mayor replied, that of course, with the rest of the country, the people of Alexandria were reading and thinking about the sad tidings each day which were made public in the press. But he had not noticed as yet the participation in an official way by municipal authorities. He said that individual contributions would be received by responsible persons and forwarded to the afflicted and he hoped that Alexandria would do its share in aiding in the relief.

At a called meeting of the Board of Directors of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce this morning it was voted to subscribe $100 to the flood sufferers, and the secretary of the Chamber, J. T. Preston, was instructed to take the money in person to the Red Cross headquarters at the War Department in Washington this afternoon.

FELLOWSHIP EVENING

Another Large Gathering in Westminster Building Last Night

Notwithstanding the high wind and chilling temperature, the new Westminister building of the Second Presbyterian Church was densely packed again last night to witness the exercises in connection with "Fellowship Evening," the third festure in the opening ceremonies of the recently created edifice. All present had a pleasant experience. Rev. Dr. J. Lee Allison again presided.

As was the case Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the gathering was composed not only of members of the Presbyterians of the city, but a large percentage were members of other congregations.

The choirs of St. Paul, Christ and the First Baptist Churches furnished the music, which was of a high order and greatly enjoyed.

The program as announced yesterday in the Gazettee was caried out in the main, although several ministers of the city who had intended to attend and participate in the exercises were unable to be present, some having been called from the city.

Elder A. H. Thomson read the Scripture lesson for the occasion, and after an invocation by Rev. Mr. Strausburg, Dr.Alison in a few appropriate remarks rofrmally accepted on behalf of the church the memorial window which has been placed in the building by Mrs. Harper to the memory of her husband, the late Frank S. Harper.

Addresses were delivered during the evening by Rev. C. R. Strausburg, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church; Rev. P. P. Phillips, rector of St. Paul's Church, and by Rev. C. Everett Granger, pastor of the Gunton Temple Presbyterian Church, Washington, who also brought greetings from that congregation, as well as from the Presbyterian Ministerial Association of Washington.

Letters were read from Rev. Mr. Bird, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Washington, and from Rev. J. H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of that city, expressing regrets that they could not be present.

Revs. Messrs. Morton, Watson, Canter and Luttrell, of this city, sent letters expressing their regrets at their inability to be present.

Rev. Dr. Allison,during the evening expressed his appreciation of the aid given by the people of Alexandria in connection with the opening of the new Westminister Building. He alluded especially to the press which he said had aided materially towards the success of the exercises.

ANNIVERSARY OF HANGING.

Negro Murderer Executed in City Jail Forty Years Ago Today

The dual electrocution of Sidna and Claude Allen which took place in Richmond this afternoon brings to mind the fact that Aexlandria witnessed an execution two-score years ago today, when a negro named Charles Manley paid the full pensity of the law for murdering John Monroe, an old Scotchman, who followed the vocation of mending clocks.

Manley's trial took place in the Corporation Court on the 14th of January, 1873, when it was shown that on the night of the 5th of July, of the preceding year, Monroe was sitting by the side of the spring in the valley which extends from St. Asaph street toRoyal, in the midst of the colored suburb known as "Petersburg." The night was starlit and sultry, and it is supposed that Monroe, after refreshing his thirst at the spring, had set down to rest and fallen asleep beside it. He wore a plain silver watch and carried a small tin box containing the tools used in his calling. The shanty of a colored man named Payne, was but a short distance from the spring, and from there three men—Manley and Samuel Payne and Lewis Payne—came down upon Monroe, who was heard to cry that he had no money, and to beg them not to murder him. He was, however, beaten most terribly, his head bruised, and his abdomen smashed with large stones, and then, under the supposition that he was dead, thrown into a neighboring ditch, from which he managed to crawl during the night, and on the edge of which he was found in the morning, and carried to his boarding house on West street. He lingered there in great pain, but in full posession of his senses, and able to give an account of the assault upon him, until the evening about 9 o'clock, when he died. The two Paynes made off during the night, and have never been heard from since, but his father-in-law of Manley, having had his suspicions aroused, communicated them to the Lieutenant of Police, the late John L. Smith, who came upon Manley, while he was asleep in an upper room of a house nea rthe scene of the murder, and found upon him the watch, hat and boots of Monroe, all of which articles his victim identified before he breathed his last. After his conviction, and sentence Manley continued long defiant, but later the ministrations of the late Rev. Fields Cook, Rev. S. W. Madden and other colored ministers softened him and brought him under religious influences. On the scaffold the condemned man attributed all his misfortunes to whisky—said he had no one to blame—the intoxicating cup alone having brought him to the gallows. He stood upringht on the drop without a sign of emotion, and when the late Capt. James M. Steuart, who was then City Sergeant, placed the noose around his neck said, "the sooner this is over the better." A negro, who witnessed Manley's execution went to Washington the same night and killed Frank Hahn, a Virginia cattle drover, and was later caught in Alexandria by the late James F. Webster who was chief of police at the time and returned to Washington, where he was hanged for his crime.

NEWS OF THE OLD DOMINION.

TRAFFIC CRIPPLED.

All Bridges on Pott's Valley Extension Washed Away.

Ronakoe, Va., March 28. — The bridge at Norcross, on the Virginian Railway, and all bridges on the Pott's Valley extension, as far us as Interior are washed out. Traffic on the main line of the Norfolk and Western Railway is delayed by reason of slides. The waters on Big and Little Stony Creeks are higher than ever known.

New River is very high and still rising. It is learned that there are half dozen or more slides between Princeton and Roanoke. About 85 feet of a wooden bridge across Big Stony Creek, near Norcross, W. Va., 5 miles west of Roanoke, has been carried away. A construction force is building a new structure there.

All trains have been annulled west of Roanoke and no definite summary of conditions can be had.

Yesterday afternoon request was received by the Norfolk and Western from the Chesapeake and Ohio asking to be allowed to detour two of their trains carrying government supplies to Ohio over the Norfolk and Western via the Shenandoah division and main line. The Norfolk and Western agreed to handle these trains in view of the fact that they are carrying supplies to flood districts. Owing to the trouble on the Norfolk and Western,the road is not in a position to handle regular business for other roads.

The Chesapeake and Ohio has washout between Basic and Kenova and for that reason it is necessary to run the Government relief trains from Basic to Roanoke and hence west over the Norfolk and Western main line into Portsmouth where they will again take up the main line of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

HOUSE WITH FIVE IN DANGER.

Business Section of Covington Flooded With Water.

Staunton, Va., March 28.—A heavy wind and rain storm here and in this whole section Wednesday night did slight damage, except to wires of various sorts.

Staunton was almost cut off yesterday, having no wire to Richmond, only one to Washington and none west for any distance. Most of the day.

The water is high at Clifton Forge the foot bridge acros sthe river being carried away and the railroad bridge in serious danger.

At Lowmoor there is a washout on the Chesapeake and Ohio and at Covington water is up around the courthouse and business houses, and it is reported that one house containing five persons, was on the point of being carried away when connection by wire was broken.

Rain and Wind at Petersburg.

Petersburg, Va., March 28.—A heavy rainstorm prevailed here all through Wednesday night, and in many parts of the city dwellings were rocked by the force of the gale. The wind, which had abated but little yesterday morning, was followed by a heavy rain and thunderstorm.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

Petersburg, Va., March 28.—The Camp, Woodmen of the World, adjourned Wednesday evening after two days' sittings in this city, to meet next year in Winchester.

From the statistical reports the following figures as to membership and work of the order in the jurisdiction of Virginia are gleaned:

Deaths in 1911, 71; in 1912, 53.

The most important business of the afternoon session was the election of officers, in which several hours were consumed, with the following result:

Past head consul, Charles H. Tumbleson, Norfolk; head consul, E. M. Bunch, Lynchburg; head adviser, W. S. Crockett, Hampton; head banker, L. B. Hargrave, Petersburg; head clerk; James W. Gentry, Richmond; head escort, J. H. Joy, Port Norfolk; head watchman; J .J. Lumley, Winchester; head sentry, H. F. Crismond, Fredericksburg.

Head managers—A. F. Gilliland, South Boston; M. R. Pace, Richmond; W. C. McGinley, Berkley; J. A. Love, Portsmouth, and W. A. Richardson, Damascus.

STORM IN RICHMOND.

Wind Plays Havoc With Signs, Awnings, Roofs of Houses And Trees.

Richmond, March 28.—Richmond yesterday had a forcible reminder of the terrors through which the people of the stricken storm districts of the Middle West passed, when a miniature tornado, accompanied by an embyronic cloudburst, took the city in its grasp shortly before 9 o'clock, and within a few minutes wreaked damage estimated at several thousand dollars and threw thousands of residents into a panic which was allayed only to the ceasing of the storm, which was as sudden as its beginning.

Telephone and telegraph wires were hurled to the ground and rendered useless. Live wires were thrown into the streets at many points and were a constant menace to the life of Richmonders, who were scampering in the face of the capricous wind to points of safety. Trees were uprooted, telegraph and telephone poles were blown down, roofs were carried from the tops of houses, plate glass windows were crumpled up, awnings and signs were torn from their fastenings and thousands of umbrellas were torn inside out and reduced to wreckage fit only for the ash barrel.

The storm played havoc with local railway systems. Besides blowing down wires in all directions and in some instances cutting off the local offices from all communication with their lines, the wind in its terrific fury tore up trees by the roots and hurled them bodily across the tracks and delaying their arrival here far behind schedule time.

TRIAL OF MRS. BOSSERMAN.

Staunton's Greatest Sensational Crime in Years.

Staunton, Va., March 28.—When the trial of Mrs. Clara Bosserman was resumed yesterday morning, she being an alleged accessory with Albert D. Worth, a hotel clerk, in shooting her husband, Luther B. Bosserman, a highly-esteemed merchant, who found them in his home after becoming suspicious as to their conduct, the corporation court was crowded with spectators who wished to get a glimpse of the woman who is figuring in Staunton's greatest sensation in criminal proceedings in recent years.

It is expected that the case woul dbe concluded yesterday and a verdict may be reached some time in the evening or early this morning.

Every effort is being made to prove that Mrs. Bosserman did not aid or in any way engage in a conspiracy with Worth to harm her husband, but the preponderance of the testimony for the prosecution has shown that she was aware that her "alleged affinity" carried a pistol with which to defend himself in case of a "crisis."

The prosecution rested its part in the case after hearing the sensational evidence of Jailer Hutcheson as to finding Mrs. Bosserman and Worth in her cell at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning, the day the trial began. This part of the evidence was admitted by the defense.

The defense, however, steadfastly denies the charge that Mrs. Bosserman abetted or in the least way aided Worth in shooting her husband. In substantiation of this part of the defense, Mrs. Bosserman's lawyer now points to the fact that Mr. Bosserman himself Wednesday testified that she jumped between them when Worth shot, and while testifying in her own behalf she staid the same thing, and added she could not understand how she escaped being shot herself.

The defense then questioned Mrs. Bosserman and her sister, Miss Hallie Rowzee. Both testified that it was Mrs. Bosserman's sister, Hallie, to whom Worth was paying court, and that he had visited the Bosserman home to intercede in his behalf.

The story seemed to be a plausible one, but the prosecution contends it does not fit in with the overwhelming evidence to the contrary, there being much testimony to show that Mrs. Bosserman was addressed by Worth as his "Baby Doll," and many other endearing names.

Mr. Curry took up Bosserman's statement that he heard his wife tell Worth over the telephone that her husband suspected something, but that he knew nothing. He was unable to shake his testimony in this instance.

"The day before the shooting you drove a lady over to Stover's Shop, did you not?" asked the attorney.

"I did. I took my wife's sister, Mrs. Rowan, after my wife had said she did not want to go, and we got back before dark. On re-direct examination, Mr. Bosserman said that he went out on a business trip, and simply took Mrs. Rowan, with his wife's consent, because she wanted the ride. He denied that Mrs. Rowan had stayed at his house and kept house for him while his wife was in Roanoke.

Mrs. Rowan and Mrs. Bosserman were in court together, and holding hands while witness was testifying. For a few moments they held an animated conversation.

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the well known liquid eczema remedy, oil of wintergreen, thymol, glycerine, etc., as compounded in D.D.D. Prescription.

We have sold other remedies for skin troubles but none that we can recommend as highly as this for we know that D.D.D. stops the itch at once. We can give you a trial size bottle for 25 cents that will be enough to prove it.

Of course all other druggists have D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but don't accept some big profit substitute.

But if you come to our store, we are so certain of what D.D.D. will do for you that we offer you a full size bottle on this guarantee:—If you do not find that it takes away the itch AT ONCE, it costs you not a cent.

THE ALLENS PAY PENALTY OF THE LAW.

Floyd Allen and his son Claude Allen have been electrocuted notwithstanding the strenuous efforts that have been made for months to evade the sentence of the Carroll county court. The five-hour postopnement of the execution today was aptly illustrated by the expression concerning drowning men clinging to straws.

The dramatic scenes of the past twelve hours in Richmond will form a thrilling, though short, chapter in the annals of the commonwealth.

The history of the Hillsville tragedies will be illustrated in books which other generations will study, and little boys and girls will stare at such prints with as much interest as their fathers have those illustrating the John Brown raid and the executions which followed which brought forth such protests from a large section of the country.

The fact that an attempt was made to get the lieutenant governor of the state to act while the executive was supposed to be without his jurisdiction came this morning as a thunder clap out of a clear sky.

The return of his excellency and his declaration that he is Governor of Virginia, was dramatic, but it showed his determination not to recede from his stand.

The jury in Carroll court had declared father and son guilty of murder and they had been sentenced to death. The President of the Court of Appeals had affirmed the decision of the lower court, and the Supreme Court of the United States could not see its way clear to allow the case to come before that tribunal. Governor Mann had closely studied the record, having taken a long time to consider the same, and he conscientiously declined to use his power to save the men from the penalty they had incurred.

Enough has already been said concerning this unfortunate case, but that there was a vital principle involved must be apparent to all thoughtful people. Holy writ tells us that laws are not intended for law-abiding people,, but the unruly, and if men persist in defying the laws of God and man and bathe their hands in the blood of each other, conditions will sooner or later become as desperate as before the deluge when we are told violence filled the earth.

It often happens that good people, for reasons best known to themselves, express sympathy for such as have forfeited their lives to society. The sad case of Major John Andre during our revolutionary struggle brought tears to the eyes of many who sympathized with our forefathers. A vital principle, however, was involved, and George Washington was the man of the hour, as Henry A. Wise proved to be in abolition days, and our governor has proven himself to be such at a time when besieged by people who would cause legal miscarriages.

THE MUZZLED DOG.

(Communicated.)

The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whome we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him,perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journeys through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death." Therefore let us give the dogs just consideration.

SCORES DANCING CHOIRS.

Bishop Kilgo Tells Methodists Too Many Church Stewards Drink.

Staunton, Va. March 28.—Bishop John C. Kilgo, in opening his morning session of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, yesterday scored Church choirs that have ball room "artists," drinking men and non-church members.

He said the Lord would have nothing to do with such a church. He declared that too many churches had drinking stewards. He told the preachers, "you have your choice. You can run your church with the best voices or the gospel."

Revs. W. E. Miller, J. W. Grubb, C. L. Kennard, J. M. Cline and J. B. Hedrick was referred to committee for superannuation. Revs. Frank Fielding and John F. Martin E. Frank Fielding and John E. Keller, having passed their examintion; were advanced to the class of the second year. Revs. J. Chester Crothers and Harry C. Bitner were continued in the first year class. Revs. Walter M. White and Letcher S. Shires passed as to character, but having failed in their conference course, were discontinued.

Rev. James Cannon, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, addressed the conference and urged the preachers to work for state-wide prohibition. William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon League, also addressed the conference and defended the Webb bill.

The conference defeated the proposition to change the name of the church by a vote of 157 to 17. The interests of the Sunday school were considered last nfight. Rev. C. D. Bulla made the report and led in the discussion.

FLOOD IN HUDSON RIVER.

High Waters at Albany, Troy, Schnectady And Other Places.

The Hudson river is now 18.8 feet above the normal, and the weather bureau predicts a further rise of several feet. Street car traffic in Albany has been abandoned schools and factories closed, and power plants put out of commission by the rising flood. The entire south end of the city is under water.

The New York Central tracks between Fonda and St. Johnsville are completely covered, and the rain of yesterday will send the water higher. Navigation has been suspended.

At Watervliet, opposite Troy, the streets are under five feet of water.

SMILES.

By The Second Ward Bard.

WOE IS US.

Council met on Tuesday night,
And it gave this town a fright,
Plunged our hapless souls in misery
For our legislators grand
Brushed aside with cruel hand
Half the sports that suit us charmingly.

Now we cannot motor through
King street at 'bout ninety-two
Miles an hour, in our fine machine
And our poodle dogs must go
'Bout the town in canine woe,
Each one muzzled in a metal screen.

And our wretched girls and boys
Must give up their cherished toys,
Roller-skates may ne'er again be worn,
But the worst is yet to come,
Movies now are on the bum,
Our grief is great, our heart-strings sadly torn.

Reels of crimes cannot be shown,
All the scenes that we have known
Banished are forever from our sight
Ne'er again shall we behold
Scenes wherein some tough-nut bold
Slugs a fellow with his trusty right

We have witnessed the last time
Where a robber, for a dime,
Cracks a helpless victim on the head
Gone will be the scenes of blood,
And our eyes with tears will flood
For no more we'll see the red gore shed.

Council, can we this deserve?
Will you thus our interests serve?
We have voted faithfully for you,
Do our bosoms bleed in vain?
Surely now your duty's plain,
To your crushed constituents be true.

If our tax laws are very strict
Is State Auditor Lee Moore so?
If the Easter decorations at the church are ferns, is Fred Moss?
If these daffydills are foolish, is Mr. George Wise?

When the band begins to play
I keep my feet a-dancin,'
Fo', tho' I am old an' fat,
I can't quite keep from prancin',
"Waitin' Fo' the Robert E. Lee"
Is music that's entrancin,'

MEAT MARKET UNCERTAIN.

Flood in West Delays Shipments in Alexandria.

The market this week is fully supplied with all the green vegetables and prices are about the same as last week. New potatoes are bringing 25 cents a quarter peck. New cabbage are coming to the markets in larger amounts and selling at from 5 to 10 cents per pound. A fine lot of tomatoes are on sale today the price being 10 cents per pound. Green onions and lettuce are plentiful and prices same as last week. Radishes are more plentiful selling at three and four bunches for a dime. Florida fruits, both oranges and grape fruit are seen on sale at slightly higher prices but the quality is better, oranges especially, being much larger than the shipments of that fruit during last month.

Eggs are from 22 to 25 cents per dozen. The best butter is holding its own, but it is expected will be increased in price soon.

The meat market never has been so uncertain as it is this week. The floods in the west having stopped all shipments of meats from western packers, which will very likely result in a meat famine in Alexandria. Local packing houses have not received any shipments of meat for four or five days and are practically sold out. One car of 30,000 pounds of beef, consigned to Alexandria ,is lost somewhere in the flooded district, and will probably never reach this city. While meat is expected to be mighty scarce unless the railroads soon re-establish and open up their tracks to north and west traffic, yet dealers here say they will not raise prices on account of the meat shortage, the stock on hand will be sold at regular prices as long as it lasts. Ham has gone up slightly in price.

HIGH WATER IN POTOMAC.

No Likelihood of Serious Trouble at Alexandria.

The Potomac river rose so rapidly and so high yesterday morning as to threaten Williamsport, Md. The flood situations in that section, however, changed, afternoon, following a cold wave which sent the temperature down about 25 degrees. The heavy storm clouds broke and rains ceased falling late in the day and a driving wind was blowing. The temperature was at almost freezing point last night.

The rainfall was the heaviest that was recorded in the same period since the Johnstown flood, between 4 and 5 inches falling in twelve hours. The Potomac was 12 feet above normal at Williamsport last night. Measurements taken at that time showed that the water was still increasing six to eight inches an hour. An additional rise of four to five feet was expected before morning. It is expected that a 16 or 18 foot stage will be reached.

No serious damage has been reported along the river, except that done by the flooding of lowlands between the river and the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal. Some apprehension was felt for the safety of the canal banks, but it is believed that no damage of consequence will be done to the waterway.

A message received yesterday afternoon from Cumberland stated that the rainfall in that region was not unusually heavy and that the condition of the Potomac river was not alarming.

Frederick, Md., was yesterday visited by one of the worst rain and windstorms of its history, rain fell early yesterday morning in torrents and streams throughout the county are very high, and the Potomac at Brunswick is about six feet above normal and is steadily rising. The rain was accompanied by a very high wind, which did considerable damage.

There are no indications of the Potomac rising to the flood stage at Alexandria. Those who keep in touch with the river and its moods say that the rainfall in the county about the headwaters of the Potomac and its tributary streams will have to be much heavier before the stream leaves its banks here. Shortly before noon yesterday the water level was lower than it often is on an ordinary tide at this season of the year, and in spite of the frequent heavy showers there are no indications of a current coming down from the upper river.

River men look for a current within the next 24 hours, but how heavy it will be depends upon the extent of the rise in the upper river.

Owing to the deepening of the river channels since 1889, a large volume of water can pass down the river and to the sea.

Mrs. Eaton Pleads Not Guilty.

Plymouth, Mass., March 28.—Mrs. Jennie May Eaton today formally pleaded not guilty to an indictment returned by the Plymouth county grand jury charging her with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, by systematic slow poisoning.

Her attorney, William A. Morse, waived the reading of the six counts against her and she was immediately taken back to the Plymouth jail where she will await trial at the June session of the Superior Court. She was held without bail.

FISHING SEASON.

Prospects for a Large Catch of Shad And Herring.

Large schools of shad have made their appearance in the lower waters of the Chesapeake Bay and in many of the rivers of Virginia fishermen are reaping a harvest. Several weeks ago the vanguard of the fish made their way past the Virginia Capes, and since then vast schools of the fish have been steadily making their way up the Chesapeake to spawn.

How many will get to the spawning grounds is hard to say, for along both sides of the Bay are hundreds of pound nets stretched for miles up and down the beaches, and it is, indeed a wary fish that manages successfully to escape capture.

It is said that the prospects are for a good season and that the run of shad is now on in Virginia. There are also great numbers of herring accompanying the shad, and these too, like the shad, are of the quality.

For size, quality and flavor nothing in the shad line, it is generally admitted, equals those shad caught in the Chesapeake.

There has been a big run of shad caught in Virginia waters for the last 10 days on two weeks.

The supply has been good and the demand regular.

CONDITIONS IN NEW YORK.

Flood Causing Great Loss—Bitter Cold Weather Follows in Wake of Storm.

Troy, N. Y., March 28.—The South span of the bridge over the Mohawk river at Amsterdam, N. Y., gave way during the night. No lives are reported lost. A wild rumor that a dam had broken flooding the town was without foundation.

Binghampton, N. Y., March 28.—The entire lower section of Binghampton was under water today. Seven thousand persons have been driven from their homes or are marooned in the upper floors of their houses and in business blocks. So far no fatalities have been reported here.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28.—Bitter cold today added to the suffering of the hundreds of persons rendered homeless as a result of the high waters in western New York. Hornell and Olean have suffered the most in this section. In both places money has been voted for the immediate relief of sufferers. More than one thousand homes were flooded in Hornell. Fire broke out in several places.

The Hotel Bent was flooded today, water standing three feet deep in the lobby.

The Cassadaga and Conewango Valleys are under several feet of water. All trains on the main line of the Erie Railroad in this section have been abandoned.

At Olean the losses of the Vacum Oil Refinery alone are likely to total $100,000 in ruined machinery and loss of oil.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—The Hudson river reached a stage of 23.1 at 11 a. m., today surpassing all known records of high water here.

Broadway is flooded and the water stand sone foot deep in Keeler's Hotel. Families have been removed from the lower sections south of Statestreet.

No communication is possible with Renssaelaer, across the river from here and all railroad traffic is at a standstill. The main lines of the New York central are blocked.

With the heavy rains and flood reports from up-state it is certain that the river will go still higher. The high water mark heretofore was 20.5 reached in 1857.

MRS. EATON INDICTED.

Widow Charged With Causing Admiral's Death.

A grand jury returned an indictment yesterday charging that Mrs. Jennie May Eaton poisoned her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, who died suddenly on March 8.

The bill contains six counts alleging that the accused administered arsenic to her husband in tea, in a cereal beverage, and in small quantities as he gradually succumbed.

The widow, who has been in the jail at Plymouth, Mass., since her arrest last Thursday, will be arraigned today.

District Attorney Barker admitted last night that the state had not been able to determine where or by whom the poison alleged to have been administered to the admiral was obtained.

In this connection it was stated that the inquest on the death of the admiral, which was suspended upon the arrest of Mrs. Eaton, could be resumed at any time. The action of the grand jury automatically dismisses the hearing in the district court, which had been set for today, and avoids the necessity on the part of the prosecutor of making known the details of his case at the present time.

It is probable that the trial will not take place for several months, as the dockets for the regular superior court terms in Plymouth county are filled and a special session will be necessary.

The Eatons had been married six years, and the evidence upon which the widow was arrested indicated that their married life had not always been a happy one. When the admiral died, Mrs. Eaton explained that he had suffered an attack of acute indigestion due to the over-eating of roast pork.

Subsequently the contents of the stomach were analyzed by Professor Whitney, of Harvard, who notified the district attorney that he found evidence of arsenical poisoning.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF RESIDUE.

Trustee's sale of the residue of the "Belvoir" or "White House" tract of land located in Mt. Vernon Magisterial District, Fairfax County, Va., containing approximately 1100 acres with improvements.

By virtue of the authority vested in us by the will of Philip Otterback, deceased, and under decree of the Circuit Court of Fairfax county, Va., in the suit of Otterback vs. Bohrer, at its March term, 1913, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale at public auction, in front of the Royal Street entrance to the Market House in Alexandria, Virginia, at

This tract, the old home of Lord Fairfax and separated from George Washington's home at Mt. Vernon, by Dogue Creek, originally consisted of approximateely twenty-seven hundred (2,700) acres, of which 1,500 acres has been taken by the United States Government for a school of Equitation or Horsemanship. The balance between ten and twelve hundred acres consists of valuable farming lands and about eight hundred (800) acres of valuable timber. It has a large deep water frontage on the Potomac river as well as a large frontage on Dogue Creek, with valuable fishing shores. The property is improved by the old mansion house, familiarly known for many years as the "White House," a club house, barns, stables, out-buildings and tenant houses. It is situated on the county road between Mt. Vernon and Accotink and is about four miles by road from Mt. Vernon. This property is one of the most historic in the section and would make a very desirable country estate because of its location and the opportunities afforded for fishing and shooting.

Terms of Sale:—One-third cash and residue in 3 equal annual payments at one, two and three years from the date of the confirmation of the sale with interest from the said date of the confirmation of sale at the rate of six per cent per annum, interest payable semi-annually, with right to anticipate the time of paying the deferred payments, secured by retention of title till paid.
